

2025 and Beyond: The Call to Practical Triangles Work

As we gather today in this sacred place of shared purpose, we find ourselves standing on the threshold of a transformative moment. The energies of Sagittarius infuse this time with clarity of vision, strength of resolve, and a focused determination to fulfill the sacred tasks before us. As the final days of 2024 unfold and we step into the gateway of 2025, we are reminded of the Sagittarian keynote: "I see the goal, I reach that goal, and then I see another." These words encapsulate the essence of our work within the Triangles—an eternal rhythm of striving, achieving, and discovering ever-greater purposes in the unfolding Plan.

The work of the Triangles is a profound spiritual practice, simple in its structure yet vast in its implications. It transcends personal spiritual attainment, calling for a collective approach to the upliftment of humanity. Three individuals unite daily in a shared intention, forming a sacred geometric pattern—a triangle—that serves as a conduit for spiritual energies. These Triangles are not symbolic alone; they are living cells within the etheric web of the planet. Through them, light, love, and goodwill flow into the collective consciousness of humanity, supporting the spiritual Hierarchy in its efforts to guide humanity toward its next evolutionary step.

At the heart of this work lies the principle of service. The role of the Triangle worker is to serve the Hierarchy by aligning their lives and efforts with the greater Plan. This service extends beyond personal development; it seeks to anchor spiritual energies into the material world, bridging the gap between the realms of spirit and matter. The vision of forming a group of practical Triangle workers—those who embody spiritual values in everyday life while engaging actively in worldly affairs—is not only inspiring but essential. It reminds us that true spirituality is not about retreat but about integration, bringing the light of higher consciousness into the ordinary rhythms of human life.

To walk this path is to embrace discipleship, which demands a shift from personal focus to group-centered activity. It asks us to cultivate key qualities such as impersonality, detachment, and intuition. These qualities enable us to overcome the limitations of the lower self—its desires, biases, and ambitions—so that we may act as clear channels for the energies of the soul. This path also calls for a commitment to three fundamental principles: the service of humanity, alignment with the Hierarchical Plan, and the development of higher consciousness. Through these commitments, we transcend the personal and become instruments for the greater good, prioritizing the collective needs of humanity over individual aspirations.

Yet, the challenges of discipleship are significant. Fear of failure and the subtle pull of personal pride often test the resolve of the Triangle worker. These trials, however, are opportunities for growth. They remind us that our work is not about personal achievement but about contributing to the collective effort. By maintaining alignment with the Plan and emphasizing the needs of the group, we develop the humility and resilience needed to navigate these challenges. In this way, we learn the essential lesson of self-forgetfulness, where personal concerns fade in the light of the greater purpose.

As we approach 2025, a year of heightened spiritual significance, the work of the Triangles takes on an even greater urgency. This year is anticipated to bring a surge of spiritual energies from the Hierarchy, energies aimed at accelerating humanity's evolution and addressing the critical challenges of our time. For Triangle workers, this is both a profound responsibility and a unique opportunity to deepen our practice and expand the reach of our efforts. The task before us is clear: to strengthen the planetary etheric web, anchoring light, love, and goodwill in ways that transform both the individual and the collective.

This work begins with daily discipline, the cornerstone of Triangles practice. Each day, we visualize our Triangle as a radiant structure of light, connected to the vast global network of other Triangles. We use the Great Invocation to call forth energies of light, love, and the will-to-good, aligning our intentions with the divine Plan. Finally, we direct these energies into the planetary grid, envisioning their flow into areas of need—be it regions of conflict, communities in crisis, or the hearts and minds of humanity as a whole. This practice, though simple, reverberates powerfully across the subtle planes, creating ripples of transformation that extend far beyond what we can see.

In 2025, expanding the network of Triangles will be a critical focus. This involves forming new Triangles, encouraging others to join the work, and reactivating those who may have stepped away from the practice. Each new Triangle formed becomes another point of light in the planetary grid, amplifying the collective effort to uplift humanity. Building connections between existing groups and fostering a spirit of collaboration will further strengthen the network, aligning it more closely with the Hierarchical Plan.

The work of the Triangles is also deeply responsive to the needs of the time. Focused meditations can direct spiritual energies to address specific global challenges. In areas of conflict, Triangle workers can channel energies of peace and reconciliation, envisioning the dissolution of division and the emergence of harmony. In response to environmental crises, they can meditate on the healing and renewal of the Earth's ecosystems, visualizing the restoration of natural balance. These focused efforts align our work with the Plan, ensuring that spiritual energies flow where they are most needed.

2025 is also a year that invites us to anchor the powerful spiritual energies that will flow from the Hierarchy. Triangle workers act as intermediaries, receiving these energies and distributing them into the etheric web of humanity. To do this effectively, we must cultivate inner alignment and clarity, ensuring that our thoughts, emotions, and actions are attuned to the soul. This alignment allows us to serve as pure channels for the higher energies, amplifying their impact on the world.

Practical Triangle work, however, is not limited to meditative practices. It also involves integrating spiritual values into daily life. This means embodying the principles of light, love, and goodwill in our interactions, fostering unity and harmony in our communities. It means advocating for ethical practices in society, promoting inclusivity, fairness, and sustainability. Most importantly, it means living as examples of the values we seek to transmit, inspiring others to join in the work of planetary transformation.

The energies of Sagittarius provide invaluable guidance for these efforts. Sagittarius teaches us to aim with precision, to see the goal clearly and pursue it with unwavering focus. Yet it also reminds us that the path is ever-expanding, with each goal achieved revealing new opportunities for service. This dynamic interplay of striving and revelation is the essence of spiritual growth and the driving force behind our work.

As Triangle workers, we must also embrace the challenges of the path. The fear of failure can paralyze us, making us hesitant to act, while personal pride can distort our motives, pulling us away from the collective purpose. Overcoming these challenges requires humility, resilience, and a deep trust in the Hierarchical Plan. By remaining aligned with the soul and committed to the greater good, we transcend these limitations, transforming obstacles into stepping stones for growth.

As we stand at the threshold of 2025, let us reaffirm our commitment to the sacred work of the Triangles. Let us deepen our alignment with the Hierarchy, expand the network of light, and engage actively in service. Each act of visualization, each invocation, each thought of goodwill contributes to the collective effort to transform humanity and align it with the divine Plan. Together, as Triangle workers, we can respond to the call of the Hierarchy, weaving a tapestry of light and love that touches every corner of the Earth.

This is a time of unprecedented opportunity and responsibility. The Hierarchy calls upon us to act as anchors of light, bridges of goodwill, and channels of love. Let us move forward together, inspired by the energies of Sagittarius, ready to meet the challenges of 2025, and united in the eternal rhythm of light, love, and service. May our work be a beacon for the unfolding Plan, a testament to the power of group service, and a bridge between the world as it is and the world as it can be. Let us embrace the task before us, with hearts full of love and minds illuminated by the vision of a better future, knowing that each step taken in service brings humanity closer to the divine reality. Let us see the goal, reach it, and then embrace the vision of the next, knowing that the work of the Triangles is never truly finished. For as long as there is darkness, there will be a need for light. As long as there is separation, there will be a need for love. And as long as there is humanity, there will be a need for goodwill. Now allow me to read a poem for you...

The Practical Triangle Worker's Call:

*Under the archer's guiding star,
We gather, knowing who we are.
Sagittarius whispers its steady refrain:
"I see the goal, then another I gain."*

*A Triangle forms, its angles alive,
Three souls united, their purpose to strive.
A conduit of light in a world in need,
Sowing goodwill with thought as the seed.*

*Practical workers, anchored in grace,
Serving the Plan, we take our place.
Not for glory, not for pride,
But to stand where soul and spirit abide.*

*The year ahead, a pivotal time,
A rhythm of service, profound, sublime.
2025, with energies vast,
Calls us to shoulder discipleship's task.*

*Responsibility weighs, but purpose uplifts,
We channel the Hierarchy's celestial gifts.
Light to guide, love to heal,
Goodwill to forge the planetary seal.*

*Daily we labor, the work is clear,
To strengthen the web that binds us near.
Through visualization, the Triangle glows,
A radiant beacon where energy flows.*

*The "Great Invocation" rings in our hearts,
Its timeless words, a celestial art.
From the highest planes to the world of men,
We anchor the Plan, again and again.*

*Yet the archer's aim requires resolve,
To meet the trials our souls must evolve.
Fear may shadow, pride may ensnare,
But disciples rise, guided by prayer.*

*Through impersonality, the lower fades,
Through intuition, the soul pervades.
Group-consciousness becomes our way,
As the personal self gives its light to the day.*

*The practical worker, both grounded and free,
Carries the work into humanity's sea.
In daily tasks, in mundane care,
They embody the light they wish to share.*

*Sagittarius teaches us focus and flight,
To aim at the farthest star in the night.
But once the target is reached, we find,
Another appears, higher aligned.*

*2025 demands we expand,
The Triangles network, hand in hand.
To form new cells of light and grace,
And reignite dormant hearts in their place.*

*With every connection, the etheric web grows,
The energies deepen, the goodwill flows.
In conflict's shadow, in crisis's pain,
We send the thought that unity reigns.*

*The Earth itself feels the surge of the year,
As renewal whispers in the planetary sphere.
We meditate on balance, on nature's repair,
On the ecosystems calling for care.*

*Practical workers, the Hierarchy's bridge,
Anchoring energies from mountain to ridge.*

*The soul must align, the thoughts remain clear,
For only then can love appear.*

*Sagittarius sharpens the archer's aim,
Discipleship deepens, no path stays the same.
Each step forward reveals the next height,
Each achieved vision expands our sight.*

*And so, we stand at this year's door,
Charged to serve, to transform, to restore.
Practical workers, the task is great,
Yet the Plan unfolds, and time will not wait.*

*In light, in love, in goodwill we stand,
To heal the Earth with a steady hand.
Sagittarius guides with its ageless song,
"The journey is endless, the goal moves along."*

*And as long as humanity seeks to be whole,
The work of the Triangle will call to the soul.*