

The Theme of Light

Kathy Newburn

Triangles workers are especially qualified to build a Network of Light in the planet. The first stanza of the Great Invocation which we are all using every day in our meditation and triangle work gives us the keynote for this work:

“Let light stream forth into human minds”.

The streaming forth of the vivid light of the Hierarchy into human minds is the basic essential action undertaken by the spiritual Hierarchy and the return of the World Teacher depends upon this. It is the potency of this light that ultimately will produce that lighted substance in the etheric body of humanity and enable the kingdom of Heaven to precipitate and appear in outer manifestation on the physical plane.

The work of our group as it contacts, holds and distributes the light of the Hierarchy increases the brilliance of the entire Network, strengthens each strand of light, and supplies an abundance of light energy to human consciousness. The more brilliantly the Network is lit, the more powerful will be its effect, the more subtle will be its foundations and the more durable its action. The more light in the Network, the greater will be the effect produced in human consciousness as more of the energy of goodwill is enabled to flow through it. It is, therefore, helpful that each one of us consider deeply this first stanza of the Great Invocation and use it, mantrically and powerfully in our daily Triangles work.

This theme of light is so important and underlies the entire purpose of that which is working out on planet Earth. Our Logos is said to be fully engrossed with the expression of perfect light and in humanity as well the theme of light engrosses our attention.

The light of knowledge is the incentive behind all our educational systems and even influences our understanding of time. Human beings are composed primarily of light atoms and the light in the head that many people see is not imagined but brought about by the fusing and blending of the light inherent in substance itself with the light of the soul. Through this light vision can be expanded and eventually illumination achieved. The intensification of light that is being generated in our world is being significantly magnified through the merging of spirit and matter through the agency of the incoming of the seventh ray.

It's said this intensification of the light has been going on since 1825, which was the year of one of the centennial conclaves and will gradually subside after the upcoming 2025 conclave. But it certainly seems that we are building up to a kind of crescendo during these final years leading up to the conclave. On some level humanity has recognized the severity of the times and that we need all that light that can be generated in order to meet the present crisis/opportunity.

As we know, the Great Invocation is the ideal means of irradiating substance and releasing light. This understanding was highlighted in a quote a student shared today from The Externalisation of the Hierarchy, page 173. The Tibetan speaks of a Door that must be opened by humanity itself through the medium of a united act of the will and the use of a formula of words expressed in sound. This will come about “by an activity performed simultaneously by all men and women of goodwill and by all the world aspirants and disciples”. We can all play our part in this during the interlude periods of the exact time of the full and new moons each month. Together we can open that door.
