

Triangles Webinar Introduction

Christine Morgan

Welcome everyone to this Triangles webinar. Each webinar, we welcome newcomers to this creative process of invoking Lighted energy into the network of triangles that surrounds the planet. And anyone who wishes to participate in Triangles, and who is looking for partners is invited to let us know.

Each activated triangle is a living vessel of light that helps to uplift the world – each triangle, as well as the network as a whole, reverberates with the spiritual power of the Great Invocation. And today, after our visualization on the Great Invocation, Barbara Valocore will be speaking on the theme of “Rhythm, Ritual and Resonance”- a theme rich in meaning for Triangles. We invite you to share your thoughts on this theme afterwards.

As we move into the Aquarian Age with its influencing energy of the 7th ray energy of ceremonial order, rituals are destined to become a growing feature of our lives. This month’s webinar is taking place in the zodiacal sign of Cancer and those of you who participate in the monthly ritual of full moon meditations may recall that its spiritual keynote is “I build a lighted house and therein dwell” – which refers to the building and beautifying of the soul’s vesture of consciousness on the mental plane. This is the "house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens" referred to in the New Testament, created by building in qualities and the spiritual gains from experience on the wheel of rebirth in physical incarnation. And through the work of Triangles, we are helping to build a lighted house for all of humanity on this troubled planet of ours.

The meditation we use at the close of our webinar is entitled Energizing the Network, and it’s through this type of meditation that individual consciousness is stimulated into a state of shared consciousness. This community of consciousness is the essence of group meditation. We should bear in mind though, that group meditation does not require individuals to work together in the same place or even at the same time. Each living vessel of Light, the Triangle, is kept energised by the daily meditation of its three members working on the mental plane. It is a shared thoughtform that is built there and it is the energizing of this little group thoughtform that is the important part of the work. When we link up with our triangle, because we are working on the mental plane and reaching up to the soul, we will naturally be attracting the attention of the soul of our two triangles partners too, even though their personalities on the physical plane won't be aware of this. The Triangles work is therefore impersonal, but deeply communicative in the spiritual world.

In terms of the whole, each Triangle brought to life daily brings a greater light into human affairs so helping to condition the subjective atmosphere of the planet. The link with others helps to relate inner energies of light, love and goodwill to everyday life on the physical plane. The beauty of this work is its ability to rise above the commotion and friction of human concerns. This ability to serve as a group, as souls, to make light available, is a form of planetary healing linking inner and outer worlds unrestricted by human opinions or deliberations. Yet it is a potent means of helping to create the right subjective conditions for humanity and by sounding the Great Invocation, enables others to resonate more readily with its higher vibratory note.

Over time, one discovers that this selfless dedication to serve humanity, increases sensitivity to energy flows which are continuously impacting the collective aura of the serving group of triangles of which one is a part. The network itself is experienced as both a magnetic and radiatory field of energy, attracting Light and Love for expression in human consciousness.

Experiencing contact with incoming energies is a joyful experience, vitalising us and others as they enter the lower worlds. From the moment a person consciously identifies with a group service, such as Triangles, a tide of energy carries a measure of the Divine Plan's light, love and power that can be safely transmitted through the aura into the surrounding environment. Though it takes perseverance to sensitize the mind to this group circulation of energy, the process is occurring to some extent regardless of whether or not there is a conscious awareness of it. This is because group service involves an unspoken allegiance to the soul's purpose, and this automatically attunes the energy centres of the server's subtle bodies to resonate with the spiritual 'chord' of the group aura. In this way, group service proceeds whether recognised in the brain consciousness or not.

In these times of intense concerns over national and international events, the planetary network of Triangles stands as an important construction of light and goodwill, linking the higher planetary centres with humanity. The inflow of light into the human kingdom is not only revealing the good, the beautiful and the true, but also the inadequacies in society. The role of spiritual servers, groups and individual thinkers in these times is not to focus power specifically on an area of planetary crisis as this may even feed the conflict, but rather to work with established pathways of planetary energy in a more general manner to strengthen the effectiveness of light and goodwill wherever it is found. This involves an alignment with the Divine Plan for our planet, as embodied in the Great Invocation, and the direction of associated energies through, “physical plane areas or localities which constitute the present modern exits for energies, through which directed energies can pass to carry out the creative process.” The planetary outlets in this current cycle are, London, New York, Geneva, Darjeeling and Tokyo.

In the face of unprecedented global challenges, one of the greatest services we can offer is to stand with steadfastness and so allow the clear light of the Triangles Network to irradiate human living. It is through this lighted portal that the higher impressions embodying new ideas and energies which can inspire a new vision for all humanity, can be realised. This brilliant light is disturbing age-old traditions, societies, glammers, and even revealing illusion as to the wisdom of our choices and nothing, ultimately, can arrest this spiritual progress.

With these thoughts in mind lets go into our visualization on the Great Invocation and then we look forward to hearing from our speaker, Barbara Valocore. 1
