The Triangles network is a network of lighted consciousness which surrounds the planet and aids in the transformation of human thinking and consciousness. Through it, spiritual energies and principles of a very high order can permeate human thought and therefore action. These energies are of various sorts, but the greatest and most fundamental of them is the energy of love.

In the Cosmos, love is the fire of spirit and the basic law of the system which demonstrates on every plane. Love is the force of evolution itself which drives all things towards perfection; it is “the great saving force” and the only force which does not produce or further complicate karma. Love is also the great building force which constructs brick by brick the temple which houses the inner life. Love it is also that destroys the temple when that life is ready to be set free.

In the human being, love is a state of grace whereby all that is separate and broken once again becomes whole. The spiritual quest of every human being is therefore to learn to wield and apply this systemic law within the three worlds of human activity. The means of application of love on the physical and emotional planes is straightforward. The rules of harmlessness and right human relationship are well known even though we may not yet possess the detachment and skill-in-action to apply them in every circumstance. The application of the law of love on the plane of mind, however, is more difficult and requires a definite measure of soul contact.

Manas, or mind, when considered cosmically is synonymous with the term Universal Mind, and from one angle is also interchangeable with the terms Cosmic Ideation and Divine Thought. As the Universal Mind, it is the “Great Principle,” the first which evolves out of the primordial union of Spirit and Matter. As Cosmic Ideation, it is synonymous with the Third or Manifested Logos and contains the blueprints of the entire manifested world. This blueprint is used by the hosts of the Seven Creative Rays to construct all that exists in heaven and on earth.

Cosmic Ideation, by its union with matter, gives birth to the various planes of differentiation and also to all types of consciousness and intelligences in the Cosmos. It is therefore also the parent or source of the reincarnating Human Egos called Manasaputras or “Sons of Mind.” These are the Solar Angels “who are ourselves.”

Within the microcosm, the mind is dual consisting of higher and lower aspects—the higher being homogenous and a perfect vehicle of buddhi or universal consciousness, the lower, fully differentiated is the purely individualized consciousness: “I am I.” The great task of human evolution is to unite the two and to bring about a seamless channel so that the higher universal consciousness functions perfectly through the diverse and differentiated nature of the three worlds.

It is the human soul, the “Son of Mind” which resolves the duality of the mental plane into a triplicity, thus in time bringing about an unimpeded relationship and union of the lower and the higher. This facilitates the expression of the sense of universality with its transformative effects on human thinking and civilization. It is this sense of universality which will enable humanity, as a whole, to begin to “share in the heart’s reaction” initiating a culture founded upon the fact of humanity’s oneness and laying the groundwork for the spiritual work to be carried out in the coming age.

The Triangles network is an opportunity to wield the law of love upon the plane of mind. When we work as a group, soul contact is greatly facilitated and the inner link becomes stronger. The keynotes of any network, spiritual or mundane, are unification and unimpeded relationship. And though unity is sensed in the heart, it must be worked out and applied through the mind. It is through the mind that love is translated into service—for this requires the application of the creative will, and the will may only be applied via the mind.

When we participate in the Triangles work, we can imagine that we link together not just as the individual personalities we know ourselves to be, nor as the purely abstracted Higher Ego. We must strive to be the linking principle itself and exemplary of the principle of universality—the higher perfectly expressed through the lower and the lower a perfect expression of the higher, thus bringing about at-onement. This unified self, which spans the entire mental plane, thinks in terms of the part and in terms of the whole. This type of thinking is expressed clearly in the words of Helena Blavatsky: in the mind of the Self “the pictures and visions of the past and future are as the present; nor are his thoughts ... subjective pictures in our cerebration, but living acts and deeds, present actualities.”

Love on the plane of mind requires merging individual thought with group thought; it requires release from the individual consciousness without the sacrifice of individual responsibility. It requires “thinking in the heart,” but not the heart of self rather the heart of divinity which is the heart in the head, and also the heart in all things. The personal heart must be lost in order for the heart in all things to be found.

All of this is facilitated by the Triangles network, which is a medium for the group expression of love on the mental plane, giving living form and character to Purpose and Plan of the soul, and mediating the energy of universality.
