Amba Hotel, Charing Cross, London WC2N 5HX

From Intellect to Intuition

A day of talks, meditation and discussion on exploring the transition into a new phase of consciousness and its implications for service

Entering the Divine Imagination Opening Address

Just as the plant turns towards the sun, humanity must discover the light of the intuition that leads into the Divine Imagination and the “pattern of things” to come. Humanity can then become a co-worker with the creative forces of evolution, establishing right relationships between all things.

A Voyage to Holism: Finding our bearings through intuition

Sean Ferris

Sean Ferris is a medical dowser based in Totnes,

Devon. His work emerges out of attempting to directly communicate with the subtle voices of the body, environment and wider spiritual world. Sean will be discussing the current ills of humanity and the patterns that shed light on them as we transit from the age of materialism and consumerism towards an holistic, intuitive era – with a modern form of alchemy at its heart.

Cultural Evolution and the Music of Ideas

John Dalton

John Dalton is a multi-instrumentalist who will be looking at what thinking is, with musical accompaniment. Intuition is for thinking what focused observation is for looking. Intuition can be a conscious experience, in spirit, of a purely spiritual content, and when we have this sense of intuition, we can also know the difference between living and dead thinking. A task of today is to resurrect thinking and recognise its true nature – and the connection between free thinking and free will.

God was here and I did not know it: Intra-thinking and the material immanence of intuition

Bayo Akomolafe

What if knowing isn't as dependent on information as we think? What if we could know before things happen? What is happening when we feel unexplainable pain and turmoil, and what has the environment got to do with that? Bayo Akomolafe is an author, speaker and 'walkout' academic globally recognized for his poetic, unconventional, take on global crisis, civic action and social change. He is the Initiating/Coordinating Curator for 'the emergence network'.
